

Gay group in Spain wants boycott of Jamaica

A gay rights group in Spain is demanding that the Spanish government lead a European Union boycott of Jamaica.

The Gay Evangelical Group of Spain is claiming that Jamaica is rife with institutional homophobia.

According to the group, the human rights of homosexuals in Jamaica are constantly being violated.

It wants Spain to lead the boycott when it takes over the presidency of the EU next month.